Under, and out of, the authority of absolute necessity
Qui tam pro domino rege quam pro se ipso in hac parte sequitur

Under, and out of, the authority of absolute necessity
Statements of Fact

The “GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS” and any and all sub-contractors have agreed to, accepted and acknowledged the Original Contracts as passed and enacted by the People, by, under and pursuant to the intent of the People, by, under and pursuant to the Oaths and/or Affirmations taken and subscribed by the same and/or the taking of any form and format of compensation and consideration;

Item 1

At the time of Conquest and thereafter, any laws in force, affect and effect stay in place with full force, affect and effect until such time as the new authority lawfully repeals or alters the same; Therefore this Writ of Qui Tam is proper by, and on behalf of, the Sovereigns for America.

Item 2

The "GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS", any and all sub-contractors and THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, and any and all local, national and/or international equivalents have forfeited, via Ultra Vires acts by an operation of law, the rights and privileges of any and all purported sovereignty, authorities, jurisdictions, venues, procedures and law forms to exist and be utilized, in force, effecting and affecting the American Sovereigns at any place and/or any time, without limitation.

Item 3

This purported government, THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, and any and all local, national and/or international equivalents, exist and operate as mere fictions of law, by, under and pursuant to the Constitution for the United States of America c1819, then the same must absolutely comply to the explicit and limited written directives and authorities contained therein; Any action or in-action outside the explicitly written limits of the aforementioned Original Contracts would be Ultra Vires, thereby voiding and forfeiting, by an operation of law, the very same Contracts aka Constitutions, and the ability to maintain, enforce and/or claim certain standings, status, characters, conditions, capacities, authorities, jurisdictions, venues, law forms and/or existence in Law, at Law and otherwise;

Item 4

There exists in the aforementioned Original Contracts no provision(s) and/or clause(s) for any real-man or fiction of law, allegedly formed by and/or operating under the same, to deviate from or violate the same.

Item 5
In fact, Article VI of the Constitution for the United States of America c1819 outlines the and authorizes the explicit and specific terms for any and all public servants and/or public trustees, quite clearly and succinctly, in order to maintain and enforce their very limited scope of authorities and/or procedures.

Item 5a

Article VI of the Constitution for the United States of America c1819 specifically and explicitly states and commands the following to wit:

Item 5b

“This Constitution and the laws of the United States which shall be made Pursuance thereof...Shall be the Supreme law of the land, and the Judges in every state shall be bound thereby...and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and the Several States, shall be bound by Oath or Affirmation to support this Constitution.”

Item 5c

Further, Article I section 3 of the Constitution of West Virginia specifically and explicitly states and commands the following to wit:

Item 5e

“Continuity of Constitutional operation-The provisions of the Constitution of the United States, and of this state, are operative alike in a period of war as in time of peace, and any departure therefrom, or violation thereof, under the plea of necessity, or any other plea, is subversive of good government, and tends to anarchy and despotism.”

Item 5f

There is absolutely no authority contained within and/or authorized by, the Original Contracts for the effectuating, implementation, exercise, enforcement and/or utilization of inherent or implied powers, authorities, jurisdictions, venues and/or law forms, regardless of whether they infringe or violate the Original Contracts or not;

Item 5g

There exists no absolute and explicit Original Contracts authority for the implementation, exercise, and/or enforcement of malum prohibitum authority, jurisdiction and/or venue against the American Sovereigns;

Item 5h.

The alleged THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA and any and all local, national and/or international equivalents have failed to prove and/or acquire Original Contracts compliant jurisdiction and venue applicability to in any way interfere with a private contract between the Creator and an American Sovereign individually.

Item 5i.
Irreparable harm and injury is being caused by the "GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS" and any and all sub-contractors every single day that an American Sovereign is unlawfully and illegally warehoused and/or confined.
Item 6. The violations aka Ultra Vires acts

The violations aka Ultra Vires acts, include but are not limited to, the following, to wit:

- non-compliance to/with the Constitution for the United States of America c1819 Article 6 which explicitly states and commands that the Constitution for the United States of America c1819, and the laws in pursuance thereof, shall be the “Supreme Law of the Land”, and that all State judges shall be bound thereby, and that all executive and judicial officers will be bound by oath or affirmation to support the same;

Item 6f.
- non-compliance to/with Article 1 section 3 of the Constitution of West Virginia which explicitly states and commands that all of the Original Contracts are fully operative, in full force, affect and effect at all times and all places, without limitation, applicable nation-wide via full faith and credit clause;

Item 6g.
- misapplication of Original Contracts non-compliant and inapplicable “case law” to which the America Sovereign has/had no standing and was not a party to;
Item 6h.
- non-production of first-hand fact evidence of Original Contracts compliant jurisdiction(s), venue(s) and law form(s);

Item 6i.
- non-production of first-hand fact evidence of my knowing, willing, intentional and intelligent act(s) of putting myself upon the defendants at any place and any time;

Item 6j.
- non-production of first-hand fact evidence of any and all alleged issue(s) being knowingly, willingly, intelligently and intentionally joined in any and all alleged matters pertaining to mine and/or myself;

Item 6k.
- non-production of first-hand fact evidence properly identifying the real party in interest;

Things do not change their ownership when captured by pirates and robbers.
Expect from others the same treatment that they receive from you.
Absolute power in all things lawful.
An accessory does not lead, but follows his principal.
External actions show the secret intentions.
An action is the right of prosecuting to judgment that which is one's due.
Acts indicate the intention.
An act done without my consent is not my act.
An admiralty court has no jurisdiction over those questions which are determined by the common law.
It is the duty of justices to administer justice to everyone seeking it from him.
Equity acts upon the person.
Equity supplies defects.
Equity remedies errors.
Equity is the correction of law, when too general, in the part in which it is defective.
Equity is a kind of perfect reason which interprets and amends the written law; comprehended in no code, but consistent with reason alone.
Equity assists ignorance, but not carelessness.
Jurisdiction is not confounded by equity.
Equity will not assist unless the occasion renders it necessary.
Equity does not regard the form and circumstance, but rather the substance of the act.
Equity is the daughter of truth, and the sister of goodness and justice
Equity desires by all means to arrive at the truth.
Equity desires the spoiled, the deceived, and the ruined, above all things, to have restitution.

What is just and right is the law of laws.
He who affirms, not he who denies, must bear the burden of proof.
He who affirms must prove.
To conceal is one thing, to be silent another.
He who alleges contradictory things is not to be heard.
An ambiguous answer shall be construed against him who offers it.
An argument from authority is very strong in law.
The laws permit the taking arms against the armed.
A twisting of language is unworthy of a judge.
He is guilty of baratry who for money barters justice.
It is the duty of a good judge to order judgment to be executed without delay.
A good judge decides according to justice and right, and prefers equity to strict law.
Necessary good is not good beyond the bounds of necessity.
Causes of dower, life, liberty, revenue, are among the favorable things in law.
The cause of the Church is equal to public causes; and for the best of reasons, it is the cause of religion.

Cease to reign, if you do not wish to adjudicate.
A charter concerning a thing not in existence avails not.
Those who sin secretly are punished more severely than those who sin openly.
A college or incorporated body can only exist by consent of the sovereign.
No man should derive any benefit from his own wrong.
An agreement avails no one unless he is a party or privy to it.
The law never permits anything contrary to truth.
A contract should be understood according to the intention of the parties, expressed in words.

A convention of private persons cannot affect public right.
The crime of treason exceeds all other crimes as to its punishment.
A human body is not susceptible of appraisement.
Gross negligence is equivalent to fraud.
Where the proofs of facts are present, what need is there of words?
Time runs against the slothful and those who neglect their rights.
There may be damage without injury-
As to the proper name it is not to be regarded, where it errs not in substance; because names are changeable, but things are immutable.
Every man's house should be a perfectly safe refuge.
Laws assist the deceived, not the deceiving.
A delegated power cannot be delegated.
A delegate cannot delegate.
The power derived cannot be greater than that from which it is derived.
Delays in law are odious.
By fraud or dole a contract perishes.
A deceiver deals in generalities.
Deceit and fraud shall excuse or benefit no man.
Deceit and fraud should always be remedied.
Wrongful intention is presumed against one engaged in an unlawful act.
To everyone his house is his surest refuge; or, every man's house is his castle.
The law gives no more than is demanded.
Right cannot die.
The effect follows the cause.
The proof lies upon him who affirms, not upon him who denies.
Specification of one thing is an exclusion of the rest.
In the same way in which anything is constituted, it may be destroyed.
Equity suffers not a right without a remedy.
An error which is not resisted is approved.
To refer errors to their principals is to refute them.
Violence may also put on the mask of the law.
The meeting of the minds of two or more in an agreement makes a contract.
From a wrong no contract can arise.
He who derives advantage from anyone should bear that person's obligations.
There is no plea against an action which entirely destroys the plea.
A foreigner has no lands, but only his personal effects, and life, and liberty.
Facts are more powerful than words.
An action of a judge, which relates not to his office, is of no force.
No proof is incumbent upon him who denies a fact.
False in one thing, false in all things.
Things favorably considered in law are, the treasury, dower, life, and liberty.
Felony is implied in every treason.
Let justice be done though the heavens fall.
Fiction yields to truth; where there is truth fiction of law does not exist.
Fraud binds, but does not dissolve, perjury.
It is a fraud to conceal a fraud.
Fraud and deceit should benefit no one.
Fraud and justice never dwell together.
Fraud lies hidden in general expressions.
Fraud is most hateful to law.
He who offends against the law seeks in vain the help of the law.
Man is a term of nature; person, of the civil law.
Ignorance of those things which one is bound to know does not excuse.
Ignorance of the law excuses no one; for all are presumed to know those things to which all consent.
That which is not otherwise lawful, necessity makes lawful, and necessity makes a privilege which supersedes law.
   Impunity invites to greater crimes.
   No one may come into court with unclean hands.
   In things obvious there is no room for conjecture.
   In agreements the rule is to regard the intention of the contracting parties rather than their words.
   In criminal cases the silence of a person present presumes consent; in civil cases sometimes that of the person absent, and even ignorant where his interest lies, does the same.
   In favor of life, liberty, and innocence, all things are to be presumed.
   In a legal fiction equity always exists.
   He truly acts fraudulently who, observing the letter of the law, eludes its spirit.
   In law all things are always judged from their present condition.
   In criminal matters, the intention is regarded, not the event.
   In all contracts whether named or not, an exchange is understood.
   Equity is to be regarded in all things, but particularly in law.
   In presence of the major the minor power ceases.
   In a doubtful case the negative, rather than the affirmative, is to be understood.
   One may do with his own as he pleases, if he does not invade the rights of others.
   It is improper, unless the whole law be examined, to give judgment or advice upon a view of a single clause of it.
   It is unlawful to judge of any part unless the whole sentence be examined.
   The inclusion of one is the exclusion of another.
   Infinity in law is reprehensible.

Laws should bind those who make them.
Laws aid the vigilant, not the negligent.
Laws imposed by the state failing, we must act by the law of nature.
Fictions arise from the law, and not the law from fictions.
The law delights in equity; it covets perfection; it is a rule of right.
The law always abhors delays.
An unjust law is not a law.
The law works harm to no one, and does no one an injury.
The law forces not to impossibilities.
The law does not require that which is apparent to the court to be verified.
The law is the more praised when it is consonant to reason.
Law will always give a remedy.
The law always intends what is agreeable to reason.
The law regards the order of nature.
The law assists the ignorant.
The law speaks to all with one mouth.
Law assists the wakeful, not the sleeping.
Liberty is an inestimable thing.
Liberty is the right to alienate or restrain one's own right.
Liberty has no price.
Liberty is more favored than all things.
The civil laws reduce an ungrateful freeman to his original slavery; but the laws of England regard a mail once manumitted as ever after free.
The body of a freeman does not admit of a valuation.
Everyone is free to ascertain for himself, or to have recourse to counsel.
Natural allegiance is restrained by no barriers, curbed by no bounds, compressed by no limits.
Long possession produces the right of possession, and takes away an action from the true owner.
Long time and long use, which exceeds the memory of man, suffices in law.
Speak as the ordinary people; think as the learned.
Great neglect is equivalent to fraud.
Evil deeds should not remain unpunished; and impunity affords continual incitement to the delinquent.
The more common an evil is, the worse.
Things manifest need no proof.
A maxim is so called because its dignity is chiefllest, and its authority the most certain, and because it is universally approved by all.
Force and injury are chiefly contrary to peace.
It is better to suffer every wrong than to consent to wrong.
The term merchandise belongs to movable things only.
Men are not included under the name of merchandise.
He justly loses the benefit of the law who purposes to overturn the law itself.
He threatens the innocent who spares the guilty.
A minor cannot make oath.
Custom and agreement overrule law.
Monuments, which we call records, are the vestiges of truth and antiquity.
Delay is reproved by law.
A custom of the truest antiquity is to be retained.
We are ignorant of many things that would not be hidden from us if the readings of old authors were familiar to us.
Many things pertain not to human laws, but to divine jurisdiction.
Multiplicity and indistinctness produce confusion; and questions, the more simple they are, the more lucid.
Ten make a multitude.
A multitude of ignorant persons destroys a court.
Nature desires perfection; so does the law.
Where the Divinity is insulted the case is unpardonable.
That is necessary which cannot be otherwise.
Necessity makes that lawful which otherwise is not lawful.
Necessity gives a privilege with reference to private rights.
Necessity has no law.
Necessity is not restrained by law; since what otherwise is not lawful, necessity makes lawful.

Necessity defends what it compels.
Necessity overcomes the law; it breaks the chains of justice.
Denial cannot be proved.
No one may sue at law in the name of another.
No one does damage, unless he is doing what he has no right to do.
No one may be dragged from his own house.
No one should interfere in another’s business—in nothing relating to him.
No one should be retained in partnership against his will.
No one should lose his property without his own act or negligence.
No one is beyond the law.
No one is relieved, or gains an advantage from his own proper deceit.
No one is held to act fraudulently who acts in exercise of his rights.
No man warring for God should be troubled by secular business.
No one can transfer to another a greater right than he has himself.
No one can do by another what he cannot do by himself.
No man can fill two offices, or two dignities.
One is not present unless he understands.
No one is bound to expose himself to misfortunes and dangers.
Nothing is so contrary to consent as force and fear.
Nothing wicked is to be presumed.
We can do nothing against truth.
Nothing which is against reason is lawful.
Nothing similar is identical.
Nothing is so consonant to natural equity, as that the same thing be dissolved by the same means by which it was bound.
Nothing is so becoming to authority, as to live according to the law.
Nothing is useful or honorable that is contrary to law.
He who errs does not consent.
He who does not defend himself when present is considered as submitting.
Nothing is so consonant to natural equity, as that the same thing be dissolved by the same means by which it was bound.
Nothing is so becoming to authority, as to live according to the law.
Nothing is useful or honorable that is contrary to law.
He who errs does not consent.
He who does not defend himself when present is considered as submitting.
The affairs of the republic should not be delegated to improper persons.
It is not law but servitude to be held by what we have not consented to.
Names of things should be understood according to common usage, not according to the opinions of individuals.
You are not to do evil that good may come of it.
Not what is said, but what is done, is to be regarded.
It matters not what is known to the judge, if it be not known to him judicially.
It matters not if a revocation is made by word or deed.
Those who err are not considered as consenting.
He does not appear to have retained consent who has changed anything through the menaces of a party threatening.
It matters not what is known to the judge, if it be not known to him judicially.
It matters not if a revocation is made by word or deed.
Those who err are not considered as consenting.
He does not appear to have retained consent who has changed anything through the menaces of a party threatening.
There is no loss without a remedy.
No one shall obtain an advantage by his own wrong.
No one shall be called a principal felon except the party actually committing the felony, or the party present, aiding and abetting in its commission.
No man can forfeiture the right of another.
Every law has either been created by consent, or established by necessity, or confirmed by custom.
Every word sincerely spoken constitutes an obligation.
All men are either freemen or slaves.
All shall have liberty to renounce those things which have been established in their favor.
All things are to be presumed against a wrong doer.
All contracts made under a law, perish under a contrary law.
Every dishonorable contract is odious to the laws.
There is no disputing against or denying principles.
Every definition in law is dangerous, for there is but little that can not be overthrown.
Once a fraud, always a fraud.
A thing certain must be brought to judgment.
Laws should be short, that they may be more easily comprehended by the ignorant.
The best evidence of the matter will prevail.
The origin of a thing ought to be regarded.
Violence and injury- are especially contrary to peace.
Contracts which are not against law, and do not originate in fraud, are in all respects to be observed.
Agreements give the law to the contract.
That contracts which are made against law or against good morals, have no force, is a principle of undoubted law.
Mutual contracts bind either both parties, or neither one.
Unequal things ought not to be joined.
Word of mouth files away, things written remain.
By a contract something is permitted, which, without it, could not be admitted.
An equal has no power over an equal.
Like things unite with like.
Crimes against nature are the most heinous.
He adds sin to sin who, when he commits an offense, joins the protection of a defense.
Let one perish, rather than all.
They are perjured, who, preserving the words of an oath, deceive the ears of those who receive it.
It is a perpetual law that no human or positive law can be perpetual.
The law is opposed to perpetuities.
Plain truths need not to be proved.
Let full and speedy justice be done to the parties.
Several persons cannot each have, at the same time, an equal right to the same thing.
Politics are to be adapted to the laws, and not the laws to politics.
Possession is a good title where no better title appears.
A power is to be strictly interpreted.
Supreme power can dissolve, but cannot bind itself.
The presence of the body cures error in the name.
There is no doubt that the rights of others cannot be prejudiced by private agreement.
An agreement of private individuals cannot derogate from public law.
One privileged person cannot plead his privilege against another privileged person.
Proofs ought to be evident, that is, clear and easily understood.
Things which are taken from enemies immediately become the property of the captors.
Things which hold the place of accessories are extinguished when the principal things are destroyed.
Words spoken to one end, should not be perverted to another.
Things which are done between others, ought not to injure a person, but may benefit him.
Things which are forbidden in the nature of things are confirmed by no law.
Things which afford a ground of action, if raised within a certain time, may be pleaded at any time, by way of exception.
Every jurisdiction has its own limits.
To investigate is the way to know what things are really true.
He who reaps the advantage, must also bear the disadvantage.
Let him who accuses be of clear fame, and not criminal.
He who acquires for himself, acquires for his heirs.
He who gives an end gives the means necessary to that end.
He who overthrows the cause, overthrows the future consequence.
He who commits fraud, acts in vain.
He who has jurisdiction to loosen, has jurisdiction to bind.
He who uses his own right harms no one.
He who acts badly, hates the light.
He who commands, is held to have done the thing himself.
He who proves most, recovers most.
He who does not blame, approves.
He who does not freely speak truth, is a betrayer of the truth.
He who does not prevent what he can prevent, is considered as doing the thing.
He who does not forbid when he can forbid, commands.
He who does not repel a wrong when he can, occasions it.
He who spares the guilty punishes the innocent.
He who does anything through another, is regarded as doing it himself.
He who first offends causes the strife.
They who seek a reason for everything, subvert reason.
He who is once bad is presumed to be always bad in the same degree.
He who experiences the benefit ought to bear the burden.
He who is silent appears to consent.
That which is not valid at the beginning, improves not by lapse of time.
All men are equal as far as the natural law is concerned.
What otherwise is good and just, if it be sought by force and fraud, becomes bad and unjust.

What I approve I do not reject.
What otherwise was not lawful, necessity makes lawful.
What appears clearly, need not be proved.
What appears to the court needs not the help of witnesses.
What is done contrary to law is regarded as not done.
That which is of necessity, is never introduced except when necessary.
What is inconvenient or contrary to reason is not allowed in law.
What is necessary is lawful.
What is done without counsel, we revoke upon consideration.
Time cannot render valid an act void in its origin.
What is mine cannot be taken away without my consent.
What necessity compels, it justifies
That which does not appear, does not exist.
That which is not good in its principal, will not be good as to accessories or consequences.

That which is ours cannot be lost or transferred to another without our own act, or our own fault.
That which belongs to no one is by natural reason, given to the occupant.
What I cannot do by myself, I cannot do by another.
What is first is true; and what is first in time is best in law.
Let everyone employ himself in what he knows.
Where choice is once made it cannot be disapproved any longer.
What is understood, is not wanting.
That person should be chosen who best understands, and is willing and able to perform the duty of the office.
In whatever manner a thing is constituted, in the same manner it is dissolved.
When the interpretation between liberty and slavery is doubtful, the decision must be in favor of liberty.
Things taken in war go to the state.
Ratification is equal to a command.
Reason is the formal cause of custom.
Reason is a ray of divine light.
Reason in law is perfect equity.
Reason is not confined to any place.
Records are the traces of antiquity and of truth.
We must have recourse to what is extraordinary when what is ordinary fails.
To restore, is to give back nothing but what was taken.
The property in a thing deposited, and the possession thereof, remains in the depositor.
A mandate of an illegal thing is void.
Of things relating to each other, one being known, the other is known.
Remedies for rights are ever favorably extended.
Every one is the manager and disposer of his own affairs.
Things done between strangers ought not to injure those who are not parties to them.
Matters adjudged in a cause do not prejudice those who were not parties to it.
A thing is private which is not common.
A thing sacred admits of no valuation.
Reservation and protest do not create a right, but protect a right.
The right of the grantor being extinguished, the right granted is extinguished.
When the right of the giver becomes void, the right of the receiver ceases.
Let the principal answer.
The answer of one witness shall not be heard at all.
A traitor is punished, that one may die lest all perish.
Rights never die.
A sacrilegious person transcends the cupidity and wickedness of all other robbers.
In many counselors there is safety.
Equal knowledge on both sides makes the contracting parties equal.
A wrong is not done to one who knows and wills it.
You ought to know with whom you contract.
The presumption is always in favor of the one who denies.
He who does not prohibit the intervention of another in bis behalf, is supposed to authorize it.
The male sex always includes the female.
A sentence passed by one who is not a judge should not harm any one.
Power should follow justice, not precede it.
Slavery is an institution by the law of nations, by which a man is subjected to a foreign master, contrary to nature.
If any one of certain required forms be wanting, when equity requires, it will be aided.
If there be no inference which leads to a different result, words are to be understood according to their proper meaning, not in a grammatical, but in a popular and ordinary sense.
Silence shows consent.
Laws are silent amidst arms.
The hope of impunity holds out a continual temptation to crime.
A presumption shall stand until the contrary is proved.
An affirmative statute does not take from the common law.
Remove the foundation, the work falls.
The greatest charity is to do justice to individuals, and at any time whenever it may be necessary.
That is the highest law which favors religion.
That reason is strongest which operates in favor of religion.
The higher the law, the greater the injury. The higher the law, the higher the punishment.
Suppression of the truth is equal to the expression of the false.
Suppression of the truth equals the suggestion of the false.
Supreme power can dissolve itself.
Evidences are to be weighed, not numbered.
The husband and wife are but one person in the law.
The law favors a thing which is of necessity.
The law favors works of charity, right, and truth; and abhors fraud, covin, and uncertainties which obscure the truth, contrarieties, delays, unnecessary circumstances, and such like.

The owner of property is not divested of his title by a larceny of it.
Things are dissolved as they be contracted.
Things grounded upon an ill and void beginning cannot have a good perfection.
Things of a higher nature determine things of a lower nature.
Three things needful and pertaining to every deed are, writing, sealing, and delivery.
A title is the just right of possessing that which is our own.
Tort is contrary to the law.
Where transgression is multiplied, let the infliction of punishment be increased.
Three form a corporation.
Trusts survive.
When an ordinary remedy ceases to be of service, recourse must be had to an extraordinary one.
Where there is culpability, there ought the punishment to be undergone.
Where there is a right, there is a remedy.
When the law fails to serve as a rule, almost everything should be suspected.
Where there is no authority to enforce, there is no necessity to obey.
Where there is no manifest injustice, the judges are to be considered as honest men, and their judgment as truth.

Where there is an injury, there a loss follows.
One ought not to take advantage of his own wrong.
One person can scarcely supply the places of two.
The answer of one witness shall not be heard at all.
Every obligation is dissolved in the same manner in which it is contracted.
Usury is odious in law.
He is not considered to consent, who obeys the orders of his father or master.
Plain truths need not be proved.
Words should be regarded, not the speaker.
Where there is no ambiguity, words stand as written.
The truth of the description removes the error of the name.
Truth fears nothing but concealment.
The truth of the name removes the error of description.
Truth which is not sufficiently defended, is oppressed.
He who does not speak the truth freely, is a traitor to the truth.
The laws serve the vigilant, and not those who sleep.
It is lawful to repel force by force; but let it be done with the moderation of blameless defense; not to take revenge, but to repel injury.
Void things are as no things.
Words spoken vanish; words written remain.
The voice of the people is the voice of God.
When an agreement is reduced to writing, all previous treaties are resolved into that.
When the foundation fails, all fails.
When the law gives anything, it gives a remedy for the same.
